The book tells about the lives of children who got to the orphanages and boarding schools. This is an uninvented story, written under the impression of the author's trips as part of a group of volunteers to these institutions. The names of children are changed. The illustrations depict children who have nothing to do with the described events.

Final Destination is Orphanage

The first story. Sasha

Sasha got to the boarding school when he was 3 years old. His father brought him there. The caregivers weighed Sasha and gasped – the weight of the 3-years boy was only 8 kilograms.

And a little later it became clear that to top all of the above, he hears almost nothing. No, he is not completely deaf, and there is hope that the hearing aid will help him, but now Sasha practically does not hear and, as a result, he cannot learn to speak, so he lags behind his luckier peers in development.

But, despite this, he is unusually kind, affectionate, calm, smiling child, and extremely smart at the same time.

The back-story of Sasha was as follows. By the time he appeared in the project, his parents were 18 years old. Several years later, his mother died, and his father remarried.

A freshly made stepmother beat him. And the history is silent how Sasha was fed and with what frequency then. But, a poor idea of this gives his eight-kilogram weight.
