INTRODUCTION

A lady said to me, «Your English is perfect.» It was when I happened to be in Istanbul one day. And she was an American, teaching English in one of the private schools of Istanbul. When she learned that I was Russian, she didn't believe me. Her words were, «You are not kidding!» Then I told her that I was teaching English in Russia. She went, «This is a tough thing to do. You must be proud of yourself. How did you learn English that well?» I was extremely happy to hear that from a native speaker, from an educated native speaker.

I said, «Let me tell you part of the story. Years ago, when I was in third grade, I couldn't understand a word in English. But everything changed one day, when a new teacher of English appeared in our school. He inspired us. He motivated us. He believed in us. He became my English hero. I promised myself that I would speak English like he did. I started learning English every day. I started taking some extra classes, learning new things about English. I totally changed my attitude to English. And she said, «It was one of the days that turned your life around.» I smiled and said, «Yes, exactly.»

Now let me introduce myself to you. I am Alexander Chumakov, the author of this English course called «Boost up your English».

It is my sincere desire in this new book to help you do the same. It is my hope to help you start speaking English better than you are doing now. It is the purpose of this book to help you improve your English so that you can start speaking English the way you never did before. Here I am sharing ideas through stories. The stories that can not only help you speak English better, but also can help you become a better human being. And this is my ultimate goal, my final reason, my number one purpose in life.

You are now ready to speak English easily, freely and confidently. You are serious about speaking English better than you are doing now. Since you are looking at this page and since you are listening to my voice you are engaged in a sort of inquiry, in a question I assume. You are on the process of wanting to speak English better or else you are teasing yourself with some kind of flirtation with your desire to improve your English, which you are not serious about. But I assume maybe you are not serious about but sincere that you are ready to start speaking English the way you never did before. And on the way to becoming a better English speaker you meet a character called a guru, a teacher or a mentor. And what is the function of a guru, of a teacher or of a mentor? He is the man who looks at you in the eye and says, «Come off it. Stop it! I know who you are and what you want.»

So you come to the guru, the teacher and you say, «Sir, I have a problem. I am unhappy. I want to become a far better English speaker. I want to speak English the way I never did before. I want to know grammar better and write in English better. How can I do it?»

And the teacher looks at you and says, «Who are you? Who is asking the question? Why do you want to improve in English? Why you ask? Come off it.»

So what the teachers are doing is they are playing with you. They say, «We are going to put you through the mill.» They put you through different kinds of tests like: grammar tests to show you that grammar is difficult, it is very difficult and it is boring. They want to see if you really want to speak true, real and excellent English. And the reason they do that is simply that you won't begin to work harder at your English until you feel you've paid the price for it.

And what they want of you is to pay the price. They want you to invest your time, your money and your energy but they cannot guarantee the final result, simply because no one can. But they say if you are dead serious about becoming a great English speaker, if you are ready to fight that procrastination, if you are willing to work harder at your gifts, at your talents, they will make a place for you. It means they will help you get what you want.

So the conclusion is you have to pay the price in order to get what you want, but it is not necessarily to be hard and difficult, but you have to invest your time, your money and your energy to get what you want. In your case, it is to speak English far better than you are doing now.

And from the Bible we know that «As you sow so shall you reap» It means if you put everything you have into everything you do, success will come to you. It always works. It never fails. And you know that from your own life experience. I am not preaching you and I am not teaching you how to live your life, what I am doing is I am reminding you of that. It is a reminding session; it is not a teaching one. Because when you know better you do better. Now you are totally ready to take your arduous but exciting journey in order to boost up your English to start speaking English the way you never did before. With this book in your pocket you can be far better. You can be way better. You can be incomparably better.

I wish you good luck!

See you soon.

HOW TO USE THE COURSE

My dear friend! My congratulations! Welcome to Boost up your English.

Hello! This is Alex your English teacher. You are now ready to speak English easily, freely and confidently.

Here I am going to tell you what you should do to start speaking English easily, freely and confidently, the way you never did before.

How to use the Story

Each story, each set has several different lesson files. All lessons, in a Story, in a Set, have the same name. These lessons go together. Every day, you will listen to all the lessons in ONE Story, in ONE lesson SET (all the lessons go with the same name). You will listen to only one set for 7 days or more, but not less than 7 days or not less than one week.

This is very important. You remember that the motto of the course is “Repetition is the mother of a skill”

You will only improve your English quickly if you follow this method – one Story, one lesson set everyday – the same lessons set every day for 7 days (or more). Slower is better.

Now How to use texts:

1. First, try to only listen

Don't use these text transcripts first. Try to listen to a story, a vocabulary lesson and a Mini-story, the POV stories and my Comments without the text. If you understand them, you don't need the text – just continue to listen.

2. Use these text transcripts only when you do not understand something.

If you don't understand part of a Story, vocabulary or a Mini-Story, the POV stories or my Comments read the text. You absolutely must go back and read what you do not understand. This is vitally important. This will help you identify vocabulary you might not understand from just listening. Use a dictionary, if necessary, to find unknown words. You will certainly begin to understand better and remember much better. Of course, you remember: You can only remember things when you understand them!

3. Read and Listen at the same time, a few times

Once you know all of the words and phrases in a story, a vocabulary lesson and a Mini-Story, and all the other parts of the Story or set of the lessons, now you can listen and read at the same time. Do this a few times only. Every day focus more on answering the questions. Use your voice. I mean, answer the question in a loud voice. You absolutely must hear your voice!

4. Just listen again

Now you just listen to the Mini-story. Don't read. You know the questions and the answers very well.

Do not focus on reading – focus on listening!

Put the text aside and only listen to the Mini-Stories. Only answer the questions. These text transcripts can help you, but don't use them too much.

And of course, you have to listen to the POV lessons and my Comments and enjoy them. And do it as many days as you can, but not less than 7 days, not less than one week.

If you follow the system, you will certainly succeed!

Remember: listening is the key to speaking.

I wish you good luck and every success!

With love and respect,

Your English teacher,

Alex.

HOW I WRITE MY BOOKS

I've got stuff to do. I've got books to write. I've got journeys to take. Of course, to do all this, you have to be driven, committed to do this kind of research and make good, big books, like the course you are about to start. That is all well, but it also takes a price from the body.

When I go in and after I have done all my preparation and research and then I go to write. Certainly, preparation takes time. Preparation takes a lot of time. Frankly speaking, 16 hours a day, 7 days a week for 6 months or as long as the book takes. It is always new. It is always fresh. And you never know how long it is going to take you to do it.

Then I sit down and then I do nothing else but write. I like to keep it tight. I like to live with the book, with the course. I like to be deeply immersed, deeply involved in the stories, not to be distracted from them any ways. I just drop emails. I don't take telephone calls. I don't correspond with people. I totally there serving the book and living the stories. And that works best for me. And I think it works best for the stories and for the course.

And of course, in order to write better I learned from the best. Famous writers helped me enormously. Roselyn Brown, for example, once said, "Writing is a job. It is not a hobby. You don't write the way you build a model airplane. You have to sit down and work, to schedule your time and stick to it". Walker Perry said, "You've got to sit down and follow the schedule. Unless you do that, you won't ever do anything" Ernest Hemingway said, "I rise at first light and I start by rereading everything I've written to the point I felt off". And of course, Steven King says, "Don't wait for the Muse. Don't wait for inspiration. Your job is to make sure that the Muse knows where you are doing to be every day from 9 till 11". This helped me to grow as a writer. I never wait for inspiration to come. I don't wait for the Muse. I made it a rule, and now my job is to make sure that the Muse knows when I am going to be busy every day, for example, from 9 till noon or from 6 till 11. I sit down and begin to write even if I have no ideas what to write about. I make characters. I give them what they need and why they need it. I look behind my characters. I breathe lives into them and walk them through difficulties and guide them when it is necessary. And then inspiration comes. It always comes during work rather than before it.

Then starts revision. I revise it. I call my friend who is a fantastic English speaker, a native speaker, a teacher in University of Chicago. We go through the whole thing and we change it. It takes a lot of time. I read it aloud and he listens to me. He likes to say, "Say it again. I have to hear the melody of the sentences." And if we like the way it sounds, we don't correct it, but if we don't we make changes. It changes things. "I need to hear the music of the language. I need to hear the intonation" he likes to say. He makes great improvements. It's always better. Then in the studio I make some changes as well. And then in teaching the students change, they change it because they live through the characters when they learn the stories. I get credits for all the improvements because I am the writer. Isn't that nice?

When I finish the book I go and celebrate it. I think it is very important to celebrate your achievement: to give a party, to treat yourself with something nice, good and beautiful. I enjoy my success. It is a sign of maturity, I think.

And I want you to know that I am grateful to everyone who helps me and ever helped me before. It's my family, my mom, my friends and Jesus. I mean Jesus Christ. I love to say, "I love Jesus and Jesus loves me". I am a strong believer that no one can do anything good without other people and without something that is bigger than you.

That's it for now. See you next time!

WHY ARE MINI-STORIES SO POWERFUL?

Why are mini-stories that powerful?

Mini-stories are powerful because I deliberately use the most common verbs like: go, come, take, give, wish, run and there is so much repetition in these stories. And the questions come and again they should be very, very easy and very much comprehensible. So you answer the questions without thinking.

And you no longer deal with the story; you focus on the most common verbs we use in daily conversations.

What do you get from this? The same words, the same questions and you get the basic structures of the sentences with so much repetition.

Even if you start as a beginner it is first noisy and then with time it gets clearer and clearer to you and you feel more and more confident in what you are learning.

Some of the stories are easy, some of them are difficult. Why? It is because of our brain again.

The brain requires two things: repetition and novelty. Novelty it is not necessarily to be something new. It means when you learn something using a lot of repetition, you eventually get tired and bored and you need to give your brain a kind of break. It can help you develop the flexibility of brain.

If you stay with simple stories and never push yourself to harder stories, it is easier for you to get that boredom. But if you push yourself and make yourself learn something a little bit more difficult than you did before, your brain becomes more alert and more alive and you remember much better and faster so you learn better and speak better. That's why mini-stories are so powerful.

WHY DO MY COURSES?

Why do my courses?

To know the answer ask yourself these questions:

- Do you get nervous when you need to speak English?
- Are you afraid of making mistakes every time when you need to speak English?
- Do you want to understand and to be understood when you speak English?
- Do you want to get automatic respect from people when you speak English?

If you answer «yes» to any of these questions, I go, "Boost up your English" is what you need!»

If you want to speak true, real and excellent English.

If you want to think in English, do my English course, which is called «Boost up your English» and I promise you will boost up your English. You will improve your English. You will elevate your English. You will start speaking English the way you never did before.

Now let me tell you what you learn in «Boost up your English» English Course.

There are 7 units and 3 months of audio lessons.

Each Unit, each story includes:

First: a crazy, funny, and stupid story.

These stories teach your brain:

- to understand English Grammar intuitively.
- to remember words with your ears, not with your eyes.
- to leave behind boring English lessons and
- to create new positive and strong emotions, every time when you speak English.

Eventually, these stories teach you:

- to stop being afraid of making mistakes.
- to stop translating from your language to English.
- to understand that English can be easy and fun.

Second: The vocabulary lesson.

With these vocabulary lessons your pronunciation gets better, your understanding gets better and your listening abilities grow faster. This is a bridge between the story and the mini-story lesson. This lesson will help you build that bridge. The vocabulary lesson also teaches you one very important thing that all native speakers do. What is it? It teaches you to paraphrase. In other words, it provides you with the synonyms you need to say it differently. It teaches you to use them correctly and to speak English accurately.

It gives you freedom.

Third: The mini-story lesson.

These mini-story lessons are the most powerful, the most important and the funniest ones. With the mini-story lessons you teach your brain English grammar intuitively, playfully like a child by answering easy and simple questions. Yes, grammar is boring. Yes, grammar is difficult. Yes, grammar is very difficult. But if the input is so interesting and so comprehensible you forget that you are listening to English. The world disappears around you. You enjoy the process. You acquire the language. Grammar takes care of itself.

Forth: The POV Lessons.

What do the POV lessons mean? POV Lesson. They mean the Points of View Lessons.

In this lesson I am telling the same story, but from a different point of view. I mean, I use different time-frame. Usually it is the Perfect Tense and the Future Tense.

Too many students try to go ahead. They want advanced material, advanced grammar, advanced vocabulary, and they say, «I already know the beginning stuff.» Well, you know it intellectually, but you don't really know it deeply. And most students really need to go back and focus more on the core, the basic, the fundamental parts of English: simple sentences, the past tense, the present tense, the future, the perfect tense, the stuff we use every day in conversations, you need to master that.

That is why the motto of this course is «Repetition is the mother of a skill»

Fifth: My comments

In this lesson I am going to talk briefly about the story. I am going to say just a few sentences or maybe more in order to support the message of the story. I am going to philosophize just quickly say a few sentences about the story itself – just a very short summery of the story. And then I am going to give you my own ideas on the story or I am going to offer other people's ideas that can help you understand the story much better. And of course, I am going to focus on the moral of the story. In other words, what the story can teach us and what we can learn from the story to improve not only as an English speaker but also as a human being. All this, I am sure, will help you get the main idea or ideas, the message of the story and of course, you will listen to English more, you will learn more and you will enjoy it more.

To stay committed to learning English, to remain curious about learning English and to maintain your motivation for learning English, I encourage you visit my YouTube channel which is English is easy and fun.

WHY DO WE LEARN STORIES HERE?

Why do we learn stories here? That is a great question. You know, how much I love the “Why-questions”. Let me tell you why all my books, why all my English courses have stories and why the method I use when I teach English is called a story-telling method.

Story-telling is one of the best methods for learning foreign languages.

We, human beings, are storytelling creatures. Our brains love stories and we all learn from stories. Stories are vital. We convey our feelings, our mood, our energy and the truth with stories. We convey the mystery of the language. And most importantly, we learn English grammar intuitively like children do. That's why stories.

I don't mean, don't learn Grammar. No. Grammar is important. I am saying that Grammar is difficult. Grammar is very difficult. Grammar is boring. It is hard to say anything interesting and comprehensible to people when teaching them languages and you have to focus on Grammar rules a lot.

Now let me share with you what one of the greatest language teachers has to say on language learning and language acquisition. His name is Stephen Krashen. I totally agree with him.

“There is a big difference between language learning and language acquisition. When you learn a language, for example, you learn English. You learn grammar rules, right? You learn all about the sentences and how words work together. And when you want to say something in English you make the sentence in your own language first, and then you drag out of your memory the words you need and put them into the sentence. That is painful. That is difficult. That is boring and it takes time.

When you acquire the language you understand what you hear. You can only acquire the language when you understand the language, you understand the message. The message has to be interesting and comprehensible. The message has to be compelling and understandable. Only when you are totally involved in the story, the world disappears around you. You forget that it is in another language. You acquire the language. Language acquisition happens.

I don't mean, don't learn Grammar. I don't mean, if you study Grammar, go to jail. No, Grammar is important. I am saying that Grammar is difficult. Grammar is very difficult. Grammar is boring. It is really hard to say anything interesting and comprehensible to people when teaching them languages and you have to focus on Grammar rules a lot. What I have to do as a teacher is say things that are interesting, comprehensible, and then Grammar will take care of itself. And this is hard enough. All I need, as a teacher, is to make sure that you are paying attention and you are interested in what I am saying. It's a good story. That is what you need. My job is to spread the story.”

Yes, Steven Krashen is absolutely correct and I cannot but agree with him.

It is very easy to give people input, information that is comprehensible, which means understandable, but not interesting. That is school.

It is very easy to give people input, information that is interesting, but not comprehensible, not understandable. That is the outside world.

Some teachers in Universities devote their lives to giving us input that is neither comprehensible nor interesting.

My job is to do both and that is hard. But this is the most important task of language teaching. The easy part is the theory: comprehensible and interesting. Fine! But tough, difficult part is how do you make input interesting and comprehensible? Not just interesting and understandable, but compelling. Compelling means extremely or very interesting. Compelling means so interesting you forget that it is in another language. That is the goal. That is why I sit down and create these compelling and comprehensible, interesting and understandable stories for you.

When you tell a story something remarkable happens: imagination flies and magic begins. What's why stories.

By the way, there is a good and useful video on my YouTube Channel about the same topic. I am encouraging you to go and watch it. Here is the direct link there. Just scan the QR code and you will be there. Enjoy watching it.

MY JOURNEY

In this article, in this part of the book, I want to tell you about my interesting, exciting and adventurous journey, the time of my life, when I was an ordinary English teacher. After university, I got a job as an English teacher at a small school. I was very happy. And I said to myself, “Oh, my God, I have a job”. But soon I began to have a feeling that I wanted to become someone bigger than just an ordinary teacher of English in a small local school. I began to feel bored and everything began to look wretched to me. And then came a day that turned my life around. I learned about Oprah Winfrey and about her show with the same name “Oprah Winfrey Show”. This show literally revolutionized my life. It changed my life completely. The show that she had had for 25 years in the heart of America. The show that became a life-changing event for millions of people from more than 150 countries across the globe.

That was the beginning of my journey from being a mediocre, average, typical English teacher to becoming a total master of English. Everything was done. I went back to school. I attended a lot of master classes, seminars and workshops of great, fantastic and enthusiastic teachers. I learned a lot from them. Finally, I got my master degree. I became who I am now – a total master of English. I’ve learned the method that I am going to share with you here. It is a story-telling method. It is one of the best methods in the world for learning foreign languages.

I want to tell you that when you have that point of view, that mindset of a winner – then literally the world of English becomes your library to help you to become a curious learner, an excellent speaker and a fantastic human being.

And your job now is to perfect your craft at speaking English.

And my job now is to help you to do it.

If you read daily from that library book by book. If you learn more and more every single day and you practice consistently. You will certainly become a brilliant, excellent and fantastic English speaker.

I became a teacher of English many years ago. But still I am committed to serving people. Still I am excited and curious about what I am doing. Still I am devoted to my calling – to teach you to speak true, real and excellent English.

I think I should mention just a few words about my other courses. I have to tell you about what I have created, I have done by now. You have to know that, because how else will you know what I have to offer if I don’t tell you about it, right?

My bestselling book is my first book which is Unique English Course. Speak real English. This book has the same structure as the book you are holding now in your hands. It has crazy, funny and stupid stories. It has the vocabulary lessons and it has the mini-story lessons. This is a very good book for those who already can understand English, but still have some difficulty speaking English. Who are still afraid of making mistakes; for those who want to improve.

My second book is Super English Course. Speak like a native. This is a big book. I mean, it is not as easy as the first one, but it has the same structure but the level of English is higher and the vocabulary is more advanced and the stories are even crazier, funnier and it has some lectures and a lot of interesting, instructive and compelling things to learn and to use in every day life to become a fantastic human being.

Number three is the course for beginners with a fantastic and very optimistic name which is “I want to speak English”. One of the reasons I created this course is because I know how difficult it is to find a truly remarkable book to start learning English. After many years of studying, learning, teaching and practicing English, I have learned how to teach beginners English much better, more efficiently and more compelling.

I also have a business English course called “Secrets of Success”. This book is for those who already speak English pretty well, and now want to understand business in general and to speak true, real and excellent business English. But you can go and try it, if you want to. So try these books. You have nothing to lose, but you have a life to win. And I guarantee it will help you to speak English the way you never did before.

So you can go and chose any you like to start with. See you soon.

Story 1 «Harry the Hamster»

Hello, my superstar English student. This is Alex. And I am back with a new course for you, with a new lesson called "Harry the Hamster". Let's do it right now!

Harry was a small, smart and significant hamster. Harry the hamster lived in a spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. The reason he was significant was that Harry never slept in his life. He couldn't sleep. As a result, he never had dreams. No dreams for Harry.

But of course, Harry the hamster wanted to have dreams. Harry often said, «How much I want to have colorful, fantastic and vivid dreams! But I cannot.»

Every day hundreds of people came to see him. Every day many reporters interviewed him. Every day a lot of scientists examined him, but no one could solve his problem. No one could help Harry the hamster to start having dreams.

How did Harry the hamster feel?

Of course, he felt frustrated, depressed and unhappy.

But one day a woman appeared out of nowhere and she said, «You want to have vivid dreams, don't you?»

«Yes, I do. I really really want to have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. But I cannot sleep. I can't fall asleep, so I can't have dreams. No one can help me.»

«I can» the woman said. «I am here to help you, Harry. I do can solve your problem,» the woman said.

Harry the hamster got extremely happy, very much excited.

«Your problem is that you live in the cage. You must liberate yourself from that cage. Go and live like a free hamster. Smell the flowers. Then and only then you will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.» As soon as the woman finished speaking, she disappeared without a trace.

What do you think Harry the hamster did?

He immediately left his spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. He went to the woods. He became a free hamster. The whole day Harry was running and jumping. He met different animals. He smelled the flowers. By the end of the day Harry the hamster felt exhausted and without knowing how he fell asleep. And of course, while he was sleeping, he had vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. When Harry the hamster woke up, he was in seventh heaven.

This is the end of the story. You know what to do, right? As always listen to this story every day. You can pause after each sentence, if you like, and repeat it after me. What will it do for you? It will certainly make your pronunciation better. It will make your understanding better. And it will certainly help you speak better than you are doing now. See you soon.

Story 1 The vocabulary lesson

Hi, this is Alex and this is the vocabulary lesson for «Harry the Hamster». This is the lesson where I am going to liberate you from the story. The lesson where I am going to give you that confidence and freedom you need in order to become a fantastic, confident and first rate English speaker. Let's begin!

First let me begin by telling you just a few words about the story. I want you to know how I wrote the story. It was when I was flying from Athens, Greece to Alicante, Spain one summer. Actually, I was visiting my friends in Spain. On board the plane I was admiring the beauty of the sky and fantastic, marvelous and snow-white clouds. And suddenly a neat idea came to my mind. And I thought why not write a story about, say a hamster. Of course, I didn't know what the story was going to be about exactly, but one thing I knew for sure was that I wanted to write a story for you, my superstar English learners. And I have to be perfectly honest with you it took me an hour to write the story. And today, now I am extremely excited to share my story with you. My hope is that you will like the story and it'll certainly help you speak English better than you are doing now. And of course, my hope is that this vocabulary lesson will help you a lot.

So let's jump into the vocabulary lesson.

Our first word for today is significant. It comes from the sentence: «Harry was a small, smart and significant hamster.» Significant means big, important and remarkable. Here significant means remarkable or unusual. I like the idea of unusual and outstanding, not like other hamsters. Harry the Hamster was not like other hamsters. He was remarkable. He was outstanding. He was unusual. Harry was significant.

Okay, next we have the word vivid. Vivid means strong, clear and bright. Harry the Hamster wants to have beautiful, fantastic and bright dreams. He wants to have vivid dreams. He wants to have very bright, very colorful and very clear dreams. Harry the hamster wants to have vivid dreams. I think you get the idea, right?

Okay, our next we have the word to examine. It's a verb. You can see this word in the following sentence, «Many scientists examined him». Here to examine means to look at someone or something carefully as doctors do. They look at your body to check if you are healthy, right? In other words, they study you. That's what many scientists do to Harry. They look at him carefully in order to find out the reason why he cannot fall asleep. Many scientists study him. Many scientists examine him.

Next we have the word to liberate. Actually, it is a verb. To liberate means to give someone freedom to do what they want. In other words, to liberate means to make someone free or to become free. As you remember from the story the woman says to Harry to liberate himself from the cage. In other words, she says to Harry, "Go and become a free hamster" She actually says, "You must liberate yourself from that cage. Go and live like a free hamster." Be free. Do what you want to do and if you do this, if you become free, if you liberate yourself from that cage, then and only then you will you get what you want. You will have beautiful, fantastic and vivid dreams.

In this vocabulary lesson we also have one of my favourite expressions in English and what is it? It is smell the flowers, of course. What do people mean when they say to you «Smell the flowers»?

It actually means don't worry about your future, stop it now, wake up. Wake up and look around and enjoy the moment. Smell the flowers. It is when you work really hard, a lot and you are stressed.

You have to stop doing it. You have to take a break and enjoy life. Enjoy life as it is or smell the flowers. Don't worry about the future. The future will take care of itself.

Oaky, our next expression is without a trace. Usually we use this expression with the verb to disappear. We often say, «She disappears without a trace or he disappears without a trace» It is when someone or something is gone completely, and you cannot see him or her or it. So the woman disappears completely and the hamster cannot see her. She's gone. She disappears without a trace.

This is a very short vocabulary lesson. And that is why our final expression for today is to be in seventh heaven. When you are in seventh heaven it means you feel extremely happy. So Harry the hamster feels extremely happy. He is extremely happy because now he has fantastic, beautiful and vivid dreams. Harry is in seventh heaven.

This is the end of the vocabulary lesson for «Harry the Hamster». The vocabulary gives you a quick little lesson about some of the words and phrases you may not know. And it also liberates you from the story as I like to say. It certainly gives you that freedom you need to express yourself better and to feel more confident every time when you need to speak English. Moreover, it surely helps you to get automatic respect from people every time when you need to speak English.

Okay, I'll see you in the mini-story lesson. Bye for now!

Story 1 The mini-story lesson

Hi! This is Alex. Welcome to the mini-story for «Harry the Hamster». You know what I am going to do, right? Yes, I'm going to ask the story. I want you to answer the questions fast and automatically. I want you to train your brain, teach your brain to answer very quickly. I don't want you to translate from your language to English or from English to your language. Of course, you can answer with one or two words. It's okay. Short answers are fine. Let's go!

Harry was a small, smart and significant hamster.

What kind of hamster was Harry?

Right! Harry was small, smart and significant.

Where did Harry the hamster live?

Yes, you are absolutely right. He lived in a spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage.

Why was Harry significant?

The reason he was significant was that Harry never slept in his life. He couldn't sleep. He never had dreams. No dreams for Harry.

What? Oh, my Lord! He never slept in his life. He never had dreams. No dreams for Harry. Poor Harry.

Did Harry the hamster want to have dreams?

Of course, he did. Harry the hamster wanted to have dreams.

He often said, «How much I want to have colorful, fantastic and vivid dreams! But I cannot sleep.»

What did he often say?

He often said, «How much I want to have colorful, fantastic and vivid dreams! But I cannot sleep.»

Did Harry the hamster want to have colorful, fantastic and vivid dreams a lot or a little?

A lot, very much. He often said, «How much I want to have colorful, fantastic and vivid dreams!»

Every day hundreds of people came to see him. Every day many reporters interviewed him. And every day a lot of scientists examined him.

Why did hundreds of people come to see him?

They did it, because Harry the hamster was significant. He was not like other, any other hamster in the world. He never ever slept in his life.

What about reporters? Did reporters interview him?

Yes, sure, they did. Many reporters interviewed him.

Why did many reporters interview Harry?

They did it, because they wanted to know more about Harry as an individual.

They wanted to know how it felt not to sleep at all.

Did many reporters study Harry? Did they examine Harry?

No, they didn't study him. They didn't examine him. Many reporters talked to him. They interview him.

Who examined Harry the Hamster?

Scientists did. A lot of scientists looked at Harry the Hamster. A lot of scientists examined him.

What did a lot of scientists do with or to Harry the hamster?

Right you are. They examined him. They looked at him carefully. They studied him.

Did a lot of scientists want to know why he couldn't sleep?

Yes, exactly. A lot of scientists examined Harry the hamster because they wanted to know the reason why he couldn't sleep.

Did the scientists find out the reason why Harry couldn't sleep?

No, they didn't. The scientists didn't find out the reason why he couldn't fall asleep. They didn't find out the reason why Harry still couldn't sleep. They didn't find out the reason why Harry still couldn't have vivid dreams.

And how did Harry the hamster feel?

Of course, he felt frustrated, depressed and unhappy.

Why did Harry the hamster feel that way? I mean frustrated, depressed and unhappy?

It's obvious. He felt frustrated, depressed and unhappy because no one could help him to fall asleep. Nobody could help him to have vivid fantastic and beautiful dreams.

But one day... you know there is always a day that turns your life around, the day that changes everything.

The day when a woman appeared out of nowhere and she said, «You want to have vivid dreams, don't you Harry?»

«Yes, I do. I really really want to have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. But I cannot sleep. I cannot fall asleep, so I cannot have dreams. No one can help me.»

«I can», the woman said. «I am here to help you, Harry. I can help you. I do can solve your problem.»

Harry the hamster got very much excited. He couldn't believe his ears.

How did Harry the hamster feel?

Of course, he felt very much excited. He felt very happy. He really really wanted to have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. That is why he got very much excited.

And the woman said, «Your problem is that you live in the cage. You must liberate yourself from that cage. Go and live like a free hamster. Smell the flowers. Then and only then you will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.» As soon as the woman finished speaking, she disappeared without a trace.

What was Harry's problem?

His problem was that he lived in the cage.

What did the woman say Harry to do in order to have vivid dreams?

She said to him that he must liberate himself from the cage.

It means he must leave his spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage, right?

Yes, that's what it means. The woman said to Harry to leave the cage. She said to him that he must liberate himself to become a free hamster.

Why must Harry the hamster liberate himself from the cage?

To start having vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams, of course.

The woman said «Your problem is that you live in the cage. You must liberate yourself from that cage. Go and live like a free hamster. Smell the flowers. Then and only then you will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.»

Smell the flowers? What did the woman mean when she said «smell the flowers»?

Well, she actually meant enjoy life and don't worry about your future.

Oh, I see. And what would Harry have if he went to the woods and if he smelled the flowers?

If Harry went to the woods, if he smelled the flowers he would have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.

Only when he liberates himself, right?

Yes, that's right. Only when Harry the hamster liberates himself from the cage he will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.

As soon as the woman finished speaking she did what?

Correct. She disappeared without a trace.

Was the woman gone as soon as she finished speaking?

Yes, she was. The woman was gone. She disappeared without a trace.

Could Harry the hamster see the woman?

No, he couldn't see her. She disappeared without a trace. She was gone.

Why couldn't he see the woman?

I've just said, because she was gone. He couldn't see her because she disappeared without a trace.

What do you think Harry the hamster did next?

Next of course, he immediately left his spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. He went to the woods. He became a free hamster.

Where did Harry go when he left his cage?

He went to the woods.

He went to the woods why? Yes, why?

He went to the woods to become a free hamster.

What was Harry the hamster doing the whole day in the woods?

The whole day Harry the hamster was running and jumping. He met different animals. He smelled the flowers.

What happened by the end of the day?

By the end of the day Harry the hamster felt exhausted and without knowing how he fell asleep.

Did Harry the hamster realize how he fell asleep?

No, he didn't realize that. He didn't realize how he fell asleep. He fell asleep without knowing how.

Why did Harry fall asleep?

He fell asleep because he felt exhausted.

Was Harry the hamster super tired by the end of the day?

Yes, exactly. By the end of the day he was super tired. He felt exhausted. And because of that he fell asleep by the end of the day without knowing how.

What happened while he was sleeping?

And of course, while he was sleeping, he had vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. When Harry the hamster woke up, he was in seventh heaven.

He was in seventh heaven. What do you mean by saying he was in seventh heaven? What is that?

I mean he was very happy.

Where was Harry when he woke up?

He was in seventh heaven. When Harry the hamster woke up, he was in seventh heaven. He was very happy.

Why was Harry in seventh heaven?

It is obvious. He was very happy. He was in seventh heaven because he fell asleep and he had vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.

And this is the end of the mini-story for «Harry the Hamster». You know what to do, right? Listen and answer the questions. Feel confident and be in seventh heaven when you speak English. This is the best way to start speaking English the way you never did before. Okay, I'll see you next time.

Story 1 The POV lesson

Hi, this is Alex again and now it is time for our new kind of lesson which I called Point of view stories. These stories are designed to teach you grammar intuitively. It is very important. I mean not to think about grammar rules. And of course, you remember why? Because the stories are interesting, the stories are compelling that is why, grammar takes care of itself.

So the point of view stories are designed to teach you the way a native speaker learns grammar. And we all learn grammar by listening, by understanding meaning, by understanding the message. So when you listen to these stories, here's the good news.

Just listen. Feel great. Don't think about rules, none of that. Just relax and enjoy the story. Notice the patterns. You can notice the changes in vocabulary because in each story what I'm going to do is I'm going to tell this exact same story from the mini-story. But don't focus on grammar too much. It will take care of itself simply because you understand the message.

So in this story you're going to hear the same story about Harry wanting to have dreams. But I'm going to tell it from a different point of view. It means from a different time. So, for example, I might tell that story but from the future point of view. I might say that I have an idea for a movie and the movie will happen in ten years, ten years from now. In ten years there will be a hamster by the name of Harry and he'll have a problem. And his problem will be that Harry the Hamster will never ever sleep in his life.

And I'll tell the whole story from the point of view of the future. Of course, I'll change some of the vocabulary, especially the verbs, in order to tell it from the future.

And now all you have to do is just listen to it. Just say «Okay, this is the future» and just notice. All you have to do is just listen, notice some of the words change. I'll be using will, for example, and you know that that's the future tense. But forget this idea of the future tense. Forget your grammar books. Just notice the changes in vocabulary. Sometimes I might change the word order. Sometimes the structure might change a little bit. Just notice it. Not because grammar is not important. No, I am not saying that. I am just saying that grammar is difficult, grammar is very difficult.

That's all you have to do. Listen carefully. Don't think about it. Don't analyze grammar. Don't write down rules, none of that. Listen and notice, listen, listen, listen and listen, that's all you need to do.

So than in the point of view stories I'm going to use two basic points of view. One is the future, which I've just mentioned, and the other I call the present perfect and there is actually a few of them. But don't think about that, oh my God, oh, my Lord! Grammar, grammar, grammar term. No, forget it! All you need to know is I'll start most of those stories with something like "Since he was young... or Since 2002..." It means something started in the past and is continuing up until now.

So that's one of the points of view I'll use and the other one will be the future. The main story, you may have noticed, most of the regular mini-stories are from the past.

I said, «Harry wanted to have dreams». So I did that by design. I did it on purpose. Because most people need a lot of help, a lot of practice, a lot of listening for the past, the past, the past, the past. So that's why mini-stories, the main mini-stories are almost usually told from the past point of view. Alright, enough talking, let's get to it. Are you ready? Let's start with the first one.

* * *

Since his childhood Harry the hamster has always been a small, smart and significant hamster. All his life Harry the hamster has lived in a spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. The reason he has been significant is that Harry has never ever slept in his life. He has never been able to sleep. As a result, he has never had dreams. No dreams for Harry.

All his life every day a lot of scientists have examined him, but no one has ever been able to solve his problem. No one has been able to help Harry the hamster to start having dreams.

How has Harry the hamster felt all this time?

All this time he has felt frustrated. He has felt depressed. He has felt unhappy.

But one day a woman appeared out of nowhere and she said, «You want to have vivid dreams, don't you?»

«Yes, I do. I really really want to have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. But I cannot sleep. I cannot fall asleep, so I can't have dreams. No one can help me.»

«I can» the woman said. «I am here to help you, Harry. I do can solve your problem,» the woman said.

Harry the hamster couldn't believe his ears. He got very much excited.

«Your problem is that you live in the cage. You must liberate yourself from that cage. Go and live like a free hamster. Smell the flowers. Then and only then you will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams», the woman said. As soon as the woman finished speaking, she disappeared without a trace.

What do you think Harry the hamster did?

He immediately left his spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. He went to the woods. He became a free hamster. The whole day Harry was running and jumping. He met different animals. He smelled the flowers. By the end of the day Harry the hamster felt exhausted and without knowing how he fell asleep. And of course, while he was sleeping, he had vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. When Harry the hamster woke up, he was in seventh heaven.

Okay, so this is the end of the first POV story.

Alright, our next Point of View story, we're going to the future. Here we go, let's start.

* * *

Because I have this idea for a movie. Let's just imagine this is a movie idea. And it's going to happen in ten years, ten years from now.

In ten years, ten years from now there will be a hamster and his name will be Harry. Harry the hamster will be small, smart and significant. Harry the hamster will live in a spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. The reason Harry will be significant will be that Harry will never ever sleep in his life. He won't be able to sleep. As a result, he'll never have dreams.

Why will he be significant?

The reason why he'll be significant that he'll be the hamster who will never sleep in his life.

What?

Yes, he will never be able to sleep. He will never sleep in his life. He won't be able to do it.

Will Harry the hamster ever have dreams?

No, not Harry. He'll never have dreams. No dreams for Harry.

Will Harry the hamster want to have dreams?

Of course, Harry the hamster will want to have dreams. Harry will often say, «How much I want to have colorful, fantastic and vivid dreams! But I cannot sleep.»

Every day, ten years from now, hundreds of people will come to see him. Every day, ten years from now, many reporters will interview him. Every day, ten years from now, a lot of scientists will examine him, but no one will be able to solve his problem. No one will be able to help Harry to start having dreams.

How will Harry the hamster feel?

Of course, he'll feel frustrated. He'll feel depressed. He'll feel unhappy.

But one day a woman will appear out of nowhere and she'll say, «You want to have vivid dreams, right?» «Yes, I do. I really really really want to have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. But I cannot sleep. I can't fall asleep, so I can't have dreams. No one can help me.»

«I will help you, Harry. I'll be able to help you», the woman will say. «I am here to help you, Harry. I will be able to solve your problem,» the woman will say.

Harry the hamster will not believe his ears. Harry the hamster will get extremely excited.

What will the woman say to Harry?

She'll say, «Your problem is that you live in the cage. You must liberate yourself from that cage. Go and live like a free hamster. Smell the flowers. Then and only then you will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams.» As soon as the woman finishes speaking, she'll disappear without a trace.

What do you think Harry the hamster will do next?

Next, he is immediately going to leave his spacious, gorgeous and very comfortable cage. He's gonna go to the woods. He's gonna become a free hamster. The whole day Harry the hamster is going to running and jumping. He's gonna meet different animals. He's gonna smell the flowers. By the end of the day Harry the hamster will feel exhausted and without knowing how he'll fall asleep. And of course, while he'll be sleeping, he will have vivid, fantastic and beautiful dreams. When Harry the hamster wakes up, he'll be in seventh heaven.

Alright, this is the end of POV stories. I will see you next time. Bye for now!
